

Aberdyfi

Mae gan Aberdyfi hanes morwrol balch. Fe'i sefydlwyd o gwmpas ei borthladd naturiol a chymuned adeiladu cychod llwyddiannus. Fe welodd lansiad dros 200 o gychod pren masnachol drwy gydol yr 18fed ac 19eg ganrif, a bu nifer o'r cychod yma'n teithio a gwerthu eu cynnyrch yn fyd eang.

Erbyn hyn, mae'r pentref yn enwog am fod yn fan twristiaeth o ansawdd hynod uchel, yn ogystal â gweithredu fel porthladd byrlymus a'i lynges ei hun o gychod pysgota.

Mae Môr Iwerddon yn cynnig dewis cyfoethog o fecryll, ysbinbysg y môr a chregynbysgod clodfawr gan gynnwys y cranc brown, cranc heglog a chimwch a gaiff ei allforio ar draws Ewrop.

Mae 'Diwrnod ar y Cei' yn ddathliad a chydabyddiaeth o'r rhan mae pysgod a physgota yn ei chwarae o fewn economi Bae Ceredigion

Aberdyfi has a proud maritime history, being founded around its natural harbour and a thriving shipbuilding community, which in the 18th and 19th centuries saw over 200 wooden trading boats launched, eventually to be seen plying their trade around the world.

The village is now renowned as a high quality tourist resort, but is still recognised as a working port, with its own fleet of fishing boats.

The Irish Sea provides rich pickings of mackerel, sea bass and much sought after shellfish, comprising lobster, brown crab and spider crab which are exported all around Europe.

'A Day on the Quay' is a celebration and recognition of the important role fish and fishing plays in the economy of Cardigan Bay

WELCOME TO A 'A DAY ON THE QUAY', A FAMILY event to celebrate the important role the Welsh fishing fleet has played for generations to support a growing Welsh economy.

Every day the Welsh fishing fleet brings ashore a fantastic variety of fresh produce for distribution within Wales, the UK and export markets, where the quality of its catch is highly prized.

It is our fishermen and women who are at the heart of the industry, and today's event is about showcasing and celebrating their work, particularly in Cardigan Bay and the Irish Sea.
